Cómo usar esta guía

Lee la explicación y resuelve el ejemplo sin mirar. Luego contesta la alternativa y desarrolla la pregunta en el espacio disponible. Revisa las soluciones al final, corrige tu razonamiento y vuelve a intentar los ítems que fallaste.

Alineación y origen de los ejercicios

Los temas se seleccionaron a partir de las Bases y Programas del Currículum Nacional (Mineduc) para este curso. Las preguntas son originales, redactadas para Chile con el formato breve de selección múltiple y respuesta estructurada observado en los archivos de Cambridge IGCSE May/June 2026 (0511/21, 0500/12) aportados por el usuario. No son transcripciones de esas preguntas ni forman parte de una evaluación oficial.

Los textos y guiones breves se incluyen aquí. Para la práctica auditiva, otra persona debe leer el guion dos veces sin que el estudiante lo vea. La evaluación oral requiere interlocutor.

1. Reading two perspectives

Concepto. Compare what two speakers actually claim, their evidence and their tone. Similar topic does not mean identical position. Distinguish supported inference from invented motives. A useful answer cites one precise detail from each view before giving a comparison.

Ejemplo resuelto. A: "Remote study saves travel time." B: "Class discussions are easier in person." Both discuss learning; each values a different benefit.

1.1 What does speaker B value? [1]

A Travel time

B In-person discussion

C Lower fees

D More homework

1.2 In two sentences compare the speakers' priorities, supporting each with the wording given. [3]

2. Listening for qualification

Concepto. Speakers often qualify claims with “mostly”, “except” or “provided that”. Record conditions rather than turning a limited claim into a universal one. Practise with a partner reading twice; after listening, explain which word limits the recommendation.

Ejemplo resuelto. For example, “We planned Tuesday, but now it is Wednesday” signals that Wednesday is the final plan. Listen for the change without reading the teacher script.

2.1 What condition is mentioned? [1]

A Classes end earlier

B Lab opens earlier

C More buses arrive

D Teachers change

2.2 Summarise the opinion without overstating it, and identify the qualifying phrase. [3]

3. Writing: balanced proposal

Concepto. A proposal names a specific audience and problem, weighs two options against criteria and recommends an action. Use evidence or realistic assumptions transparently; a counterargument makes the recommendation more persuasive when addressed fairly. Check cohesion and formal register.

Ejemplo resuelto. “Although tablets save printing, charging and access must be considered. A pilot in one class would test both costs.”

3.1 Which sentence is most suitable for a formal proposal? [1]

A This idea is super cool!

B A short trial would allow evaluation.

C Do it now!!!

D Everybody knows it works.

3.2 Write 110–140 words proposing one improvement to your school. Compare two options, set a criterion and give a justified recommendation. [6]

4. Speaking: justified discussion

Concepto. In discussion, make a claim, support it and respond to the other person's point. Phrases such as "I see your point; however..." acknowledge without automatic agreement. Ask a genuine follow-up question; adjust language if a listener asks for clarification.

Ejemplo resuelto. "I see your point about cost; however, the free option takes more time. Could we trial both?"

4.1 Which response engages with another speaker's point? [1]

A I will ignore that.

B I see your point about cost; however...

C No comment.

D Whatever.

4.2 Prepare a short exchange on later school start times: one benefit, one drawback, a response to a partner, and one follow-up question. [3]

Solucionario y criterios

La respuesta de desarrollo muestra una solución modelo; se aceptan formulaciones científicas o matemáticas equivalentes que justifiquen el procedimiento. En Inglés, la producción abierta admite respuestas diversas que cumplan los criterios.
