

1.1 Directed writing and text transformation

Paper 1 Reading · 2026 examination · Concept guide and original exam-style practice

Understand the concept

Identify genre, audience, purpose and register before transforming a source. Retain relevant factual content while changing voice, organisation and tone to meet a new brief. A directed response succeeds when it selects details, reorganises them for the new reader and avoids copying a source's phrasing mechanically.

Worked example: follow the reasoning

A volunteer's informal account of a river clean-up could become a council report by replacing first-person reactions with evidence, outcomes and next steps; include date, measured rubbish and safety concerns.

Original practice stimulus

At dawn the volunteers arrived with gloves, bags and a plan to clear the path beside the river. The eastern entrance remained closed while broken glass was removed. By noon they had collected twenty bags of rubbish, and families were using the path again. A resident offered drinking water; the council supplied a vehicle to remove the full bags. The team could not reach litter caught below the bridge because the bank was too steep. That area remains closed while a trained crew assesses it. Local residents can help by using the bins at either entrance and reporting sharp objects instead of handling them. The volunteers will meet again next Saturday, provided the weather allows safe access.

Extended response

Compose your response in the space provided and support your interpretation with evidence.

1 Original stimulus: “At dawn we hauled twenty bags from the riverbank; by noon families were using the path again.” Write the opening 120–160 words of a public information update for residents. Explain two audience choices.

[25]

Check: relevant evidence · coherent argument · accurate and deliberate language

Answers and explanation

Question 1 [25 marks]

A strong response supplies precise twenty-bag evidence, accessible public tone, purpose in the first sentence and realistic next step. It avoids inventing unsupported statistics. Commentary identifies wording and order, e.g. action first to reassure residents, then an invitation to maintain the path.

Self-assessment

Compare each credited step with your own answer. Fix the first reasoning or calculation error; then retry without looking at the solution.

Syllabus: English Language 9093, 2024–2026.

<https://www.cambridgeinternational.org/Images/635901-2024-2026-syllabus.pdf>

Original FagusED teaching material. Question layout and mark presentation informed by the May/June 2026 papers supplied by the user. The practice question is newly written and is not a Cambridge past-paper question.